ROUTINE USES: We must have your social security number (SSN) to keep your records straight because other people may have the same name and birth date. The SSN has been used to keep records since 1943, when Executive Order 9397 asked agencies to do so. We may also use your SSN to make requests for information about you from employers, schools, banks, and other who know you, but only where allowed by law. The information we collect by using your SSN will be used for employment purposes, and also for studies and statistics that will not identify you. We may give information from your records to appropriated federal agencies such as the Department of Labor and the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, to resolve and/or adjudicate matters falling within their jurisdiction. Records may also be disclosed to labor organizations in response to requests for names of employees and identifying information. Information we have about you may also be given to federal, state, and local agencies for checking on law violations or other lawful purposes.

DISCLOSURE: Your responses to the collection of this information are voluntary, but we cannot determine your qualifications, which is the first step toward getting the job, if you do not answer these questions.

All appointments are made subject to a satisfactory character investigation. Appointment made to positions where cash is handled may be subject to fidelity bonding requirements.
